

The king awoke with a terrible pain in his heart. Someone had found his armor. Years ago, after slaughtering 500 men on the battle field, the king realized his armor was haunted by the Persian Empire. So he buried it with the hope that no one would ever discover it.

Duck said, "I don't believe it, there's no way you can kill an adult alligator." And Lord Mallard replied, "Guess what? I already have," and he pointed to alligator skinned boots on his feet. "How?" said Duck. "Well, I knifed his eyes and sucked his brains out through his ears."